DIGITAL TECHNOLOGIES IN THE LIVES OF YOUNG PEOPLE

Routledge This book examines the presence and effects of new technologies in the lives of young people. The rapid pace of change in the development and use of digital technologies, and the likely impact this has on youth, means that the topic has wide implications for educational institutions, theory and practice. There is a demand for a concentration on the ways in which new devices such as smart phones and tablets, as well as new platforms and recent notions such as the 'flipped classroom', are affecting the way education is being provided. However, there is also still a small minority who do not have full access to the internet, and the disadvantages suffered by this group must also be addressed. The internet offers a vast range of opportunities for young people, and yet for various reasons it is not always available. This can partly be attributed to the controls that schools impose on the use of digital technology, for reasons of safety and security, and can in part be explained by the fact that policy makers have contradictory attitudes to technology. While they may argue for the need to have a well-educated and well-trained workforce, they fear the threats to privacy and safety posed by the internet. This book asserts that society needs to have more open debate about the threats and opportunities of digital technology as it is a dynamic and ever-changing topic for us all. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Oxford Review of Education.

TO WANT TO LEARN

INSIGHTS AND PROVOCATIONS FOR ENGAGED LEARNING

Springer Lack of learner motivation is the single greatest challenge before American schools and colleges. When students are self-motivated, they invest more and work harder at learning even if resources are inadequate. Jackson Kyle's provocative book argues that students and teachers waste time and human energy because the conventional curriculum rests on flawed mental models. Hope for change requires a searching critique of modernity as well as expanded theories of human motivation and learning based on advances in neurobiology and cognitive studies. After consideration of existentialism and choice of life purposes, and the dynamics of psychological involvement, Kyle closes his ambitious, interdisciplinary book with ten considerations for better learning.

HANDBOOK OF RESEARCH ON PEDAGOGICAL INNOVATIONS FOR SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

IGI Global Summary: "This book brings together case study examples in the fields of sustainability, sustainable development, and education for sustainable development"--

THE WRITER'S RESPONSE: A READING-BASED APPROACH TO WRITING

Cengage Learning THE WRITER'S RESPONSE teaches students not only the basics of paragraph and essay writing—unity, coherence, and support—but also the basics of academic writing, making it a complete source for students preparing for higher-level work. Through a variety of exercises and extensive readings, the text teaches students to read carefully and summarize accurately, to recognize and respond to specific points in the material they have read, to synthesize ideas from several reading selections, and to evaluate and argue about the ideas they have found in their reading material. Although the authors' focus is on writing about reading, they also encourage students to use their personal experiences to develop and support their ideas. This combination results in a text that not only imparts the fundamentals of college-level writing, but also helps each student find his or her own voice—and discover that they do, indeed, have something to say. MANUAL OF DIRECTIONS FOR THE LEARN TO STUDY READERS

CHANGING LIVES

STUDIES IN HUMAN DEVELOPMENT AND PROFESSIONAL HELPING

Helping professionals must know the underlying structures and dynamics of human behavior and development if they are to offer efficacious and humane care. From across the broad spectrum of the social and health sciences, this anthology presents important recent writings about human experience. Changing Lives combines the presentation of basic information on human development with balanced descriptions of preventive and interventive methods of helping. The volume comprises forty-eight papers from a wide range of educators and health professionals - from psychology, sociology, and epidemiology to social work, nursing, and counseling - reflecting the multidisciplinary context in which the teaching of human development occurs. Bloom has included papers which provide illustrations of all the modes of helping - primary prevention, treatment, and rehabilitation; those which address the major theoretical orientations of our day - the ecological perspective, the behavioral approach, and psychodynamic theories; an "I-witness" report by a homeless woman; and clinical case studies and research reports. Each paper is self-contained and includes references for additional study. The readings are grouped around the eight elemental, or universal, human experiences: growth and development, communication, love/sexuality and pregnancy, and life and death. Each developmental phase, from infancy to old age, receives focused attention (as indicated by alternative tables of contents). Readers are introduced to the wide and penetrating scope of contemporary knowledge, and critical questions are raised about what helping professionals know and how this knowledge might best be applied in practice. -- from back cover.

NEW LEARNING ENVIRONMENTS

PAPERS AND SESSION MATERIALS PRESENTED AT THE TWENTY-SIXTH NATIONAL LOEX LIBRARY INSTRUCTION CONFERENCE HELD IN YPSILANTI, MICHIGAN, 4 TO 6 JUNE 1998

Pierian Press It's the learning environment, not the wiring. As you will see, without an extremely intelligent engineering design many of these learning environment-centered service programs would not be possible. It takes a very sophisticated integrated technologies system infrastructure to mount an effective program of services within the new

"cybrary." However, you don't wire for the sake of wiring. You wire for a reason-the creation of optimal learning environments.

NEW DIRECTIONS IN TELECOLLABORATIVE RESEARCH AND PRACTICE: SELECTED PAPERS FROM THE SECOND CONFERENCE ON TELECOLLABORATION IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Research-publishing.net This collection of papers, consisting of 39 delegate contributions and three keynote articles from "New directions in telecollaborative research and practice: the second conference on telecollaboration in higher education" hosted by Trinity College Dublin in April 2016, offers a window on a rapidly evolving form of learning. Telecollaboration is used in many formats and contexts, but has as a defining feature the ability to unite learners from classrooms around the world in meaningful computer-mediated tasks and activities. This cross-disciplinary overview discusses telecollaboration in support of language and culture, teacher training, student mobility, and other disciplines and skills from a range of analytical perspectives. It will be of interest to anyone working in HE as an educator, researcher, educational designer, mobility officer, decision maker or administrator.
